SOURCE [REDACTED]

The twin-engine aircraft previously stationed at the Cottbus (N 52/A 57) airfield have been transferred. All planes, except four, took off for an undetermined destination on 7 April 1950 and had not returned up to 10 April 1950.

Comment:

The report has not been confirmed by other sources. Expansion work is being done at the airfield. As the expansion is not required for the bomber aircraft previously stationed at the field it is assumed to be for an intended occupation by other aircraft types. In this connection the report is considered credible.

This document is hereby regraded to CONFIDENTIAL in accordance with the letter of 13 October 1978 from the Director of Central Intelligence to the Archivist of the United States.
